FLOOR DEBATE

January 12, 2004 LB 172

says, passed by the Legislature, and it gives the date. And so these are distributed to each student in the schools. It's not put in a handbook, put out on a table. It's handed to each student that one day.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: And do other schools do it differently? You mentioned to me, in our conversation, something about Omaha.

SENATOR PRICE: Yes. Other schools will put it in their handbook, but Lincoln Public Schools felt it very important that we follow the policy and hand it to each student each year, once a year.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Okay. Thank you. And, oh, could I ask a follow-up question? And I know the answer to this, but I want to make sure that everybody else knows the answer to this. Does this just apply to public schools? Does it apply to private schools?

SENATOR PRICE: That is a question that I cannot answer. I do not know.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Okay, thank you, Senator Price. I appreciate the information very much and I believe, if my...if I'm correct, that it doesn't apply, but I could be wrong about that too. So thank you, Senator Price. Appreciate it.

SENATOR PRICE: Yes. You're welcome.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: In some ways, I think this is much ado about nothing, getting rid of this process because, as Senator Price just indicated to you, school boards and school districts that handle it in a professional way seem to be able to respond to parents and seem to be able to provide that information without too much controversy, and I'm not implying that other school boards don't do it in a professional way. It just seems that, at least the experience here in Lincoln, has been that it's pretty noncontroversial. What I guess I would go back to is the original reason that we put something like this in statute anyway. I know very well, Senator Foley, that if your bill advances and passes, that school districts won't do it anymore.
