FLOOR DEBATE

January 26, 2004 LB 139

that reason. There's no reference to it, and...

SENATOR JOHNSON: Yes, and...

SENATOR BAKER: ...even though there's no cost. The cost is borne by the accused in this case, simply. There's no...

SENATOR JOHNSON: Yes, but it's strictly because we felt that this was a civil section and not a criminal section.

SENATOR BAKER: Okay. I understand. That answers my question. Thank you.

SENATOR JOHNSON: Thank you.

SPEAKER BROMM: Thank you, Senators Baker and Johnson. Senator Tyson.

SENATOR TYSON: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. If I could have a dialogue with Senator Johnson.

SPEAKER BROMM: Senator Johnson, would you yield, please?

SENATOR JOHNSON: Yes, sir.

SENATOR TYSON: Yeah, Senator Johnson, I think as a result of our previous conversation off the floor, I understand all of your amendment, AM2300, except the deletion, the striking, of Section 7. And I realize that a portion of that was just addressed, but...

SENATOR JOHNSON: Where...where this...

SENATOR TYSON: ...I guess my question is why?

SENATOR JOHNSON: Where...where this came from, Senator Tyson, was this; is that we were approached, as was the committee, by a member representing...I believe it was railroad workers, and that if you'll recall a couple of years ago I think it was...I'm sure it was a railroad where they wanted DNA samples taken from their various members and the implied intent, anyhow, was that
