FLOOR DEBATE

February 2, 2004 LB 172

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. President, members of the Legislature, Senator Schimek's is...her amendment is a very reasonable approach in view of the fact that we are trying to navigate between extremes. I won't talk about Scylla and Charybdis, but these were two extremes and if one didn't get you, the other one would. They come from mythology and if anybody is interested, one S-c-y-l-l-a, and Charybdis starts with a C-h instead of a K, and I'm going to leave the rest to you all. And if you can't spell it, ask Senator Schimek. She knows everything about grammar and spelling. Senator Schimek, I would like to ask you a question, if I may.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Senator Schimek.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Yes, thank you. I'm a little nervous about your question, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: This...these are...this will be kind of on the amendment and tangentially so.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Okay.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Schimek, there are times when maybe a person, a young person or an old person, could fall into a set of circumstances where sex was not the intent at the beginning. Would you agree with that?

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Yes, I would.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And things can develop and move in a direction where a sexual encounter occurs and maybe the male will just disappear. Does that happen?

SENATOR SCHIMEK: It's possible, yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And in some instances, the male is a lot older or somewhat older than the young female, if we're talking about those in this category that the bill addresses.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: I can think of, personally, several examples
