LR 209

football game lover. I don't like football. I don't like football at all, but I'm here to support it because the people like it. I think we have a good program there now in football. We call it new blood. We have a lot of events around the state which are competing for the State Fair. That's good, the more we get together. Oh, that's like a song. That just reminded me of a song: The more we get together, the more we get together, the happier we'll be. Remember that song? No, you're too young probably. But the happier we'll be the more we get together. I don't know what else to say here on this issue, but every senator here has a right to think the way he thinks. But think about the number. Think about the number. Did you hear him when I said about a quarter of a million people? And we think it's going down the drain? I mean (laugh)...I mean that's about, what is that, close to 20 percent of the population goes to the Nebraska State Fair. There were 7,000 kids. I don't know how many people have been there; how many people haven't. I don't know. That's your own prerogative whether you go or not. But when you stand there on the street, like I do, and watch those bands go by...because I love music, keep in mind. Some of you don't. That's fine. I love music. But when you see those bands, I don't know how many schools there are, whether there are 30 or 60, seemed like 100, because it's great, but when they go by there, marching by, they're proud. Get off that bus and they run and they go grab a hamburger or something, and those young kids from every school, I think, in Nebraska, all the way from Omaha to Scottsbluff, they march, they march and they blow their horn and they dance. We got people out there that can dance better than anybody on this floor, I'll tell you that. They've got rhythm, and they've got trombones and they've got saxophones and every...have...nobody carries a piano, darn it. That's...I wished they did. But anyway, my point is, a quarter of a million people, a quarter of a million people. The new blood which I talked about, and I'm not going to talk a whole lot more about this. All I say is that let's don't get caught up in the fact that it's going down the drain. There's so many more things to compete. We have an air show that day in Omaha, which is great. I love airplanes. It was a torn...I was torn between whether to go to Omaha or the State Fair. The State Fair did win out, but I hated it because I didn't go to Omaha, because I also like airplanes. And that's
