administrator of an assisted-living establishment? Is this correct?

SENATOR JENSEN: Yes.

SENATOR STUTHMAN: Okay. In this training, how is this training going to be done? Who is going to do this training? Is this going to be training from a national organization, or is this going to be set up by the Health and Human Services Department?

SENATOR JENSEN: HHS will do the training. Now if they've had other experience, oh, as a hospital administrator or some other administrator, that also can be taken into consideration. Otherwise, HHS would do the 30 hours of training.

SENATOR STUTHMAN: Okay. I'm in a situation where I know an individual that is an assisted-living administrator, and she has gone to, more or less, a mini training course, and was hired by the assisted-living operation. She's worked at this operation for several years already. How will this be considered when she's going...in consideration of those 30 hours? Or is it going to be that as of the effective date they're going to have to go to 30 hours of training, and there's going to be an expense to this training? And how is this going to be addressed?

SENATOR JENSEN: That's if they've never served in that position. She is currently serving there. That will certainly be taken into consideration. More than likely, she would not have to receive any further training beyond what she's already had in the past, in her past experience.

SENATOR STUTHMAN: This is the issue that I had. And you know, I'm glad to hear that. You know, I really don't see anything in there, but I think it's under the direction of the Health and Human Services to establish those type of a guidelines. I'm sure that what we don't want to see is, you know, in the future, that someone is hired, you know, off the street and becomes an administrator with no training, you know, possibly with some training. And this, you know, will probably protect that. The only other concern that I have is, if it requires an individual
