done. And it took a while for that program to get up so that after three years actually there was money left in there that had been unused. So the fourth year there was no money allocated to tobacco cessation. But there was enough money left in the fund to continue funding it for at least some time. Finally, last year the end came to the money available, and so the Appropriations Committee came back to...with a General Fund request for tobacco cessation money. And the Legislature decided, with the exception of a transfer of some tobacco stamp money, not to do that, because at least my view, that was in effect instituting a brand-new program in a year where we are obviously making serious and substantial cuts. My concern about this proposal is that this goes back at a...on a smaller scale, to the original $7 million carve it off the top proposal. I don't think that's a good idea, for two reasons. I think it...unless I'm persuaded otherwise, Senator Jensen, that's going to jeopardize the allocation or the funding of the other programs in perpetuity, as was envisioned. And at least that's the main reason. So let me stop there, and I'll ask you to respond to that.

And as we proceed on out, I'll go out to...if we don't do anything else, if we get to 2008, we'll have $482 million. We get to 2013, we'll have $684 million. Okay, I'll go to the next page here, where it is, if we took $3 million--and we're not going to $3 million, I don't have the $2.5 million, which was...which is in the bill--we would end the balance...oh, let's go out 2008 again--$465 million; and at the end of 2013, we have $643 million...

SPEAKER BROMM: One minute.

SENATOR JENSEN: ...in the fund, as opposed to $684 million, if we do the carve-out of $3 million, not 2.5. So it would be less than that. We have sufficient dollars in there to do this, and
