being achieved. But even while working toward that point, we must have items before us since we're not going to adjourn. Senator...oh, he's here, the "Baron," Senator "Baron" Tyson had made some very disparaging remark about Senator Janssen's proposal earlier today, but I doubt, Senator Janssen, that the "Baron" remembers what he said. I would like to ask Senator Tyson a question.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Senator Tyson, would you respond to a question?

SENATOR TYSON: Yes, Madam President, I will.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Tyson, did you make a reference to this proposal that is before us from Senator Janssen earlier today?

SENATOR TYSON: Yes, I did.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Would your characterization have been disparaging?

SENATOR TYSON: In a very friendly way.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: What was your...

SENATOR TYSON: But, yes, it was disparaging.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How did you characterize what he is offering us, if you recall?

SENATOR TYSON: I don't...I may have included that in the list of activities in which we were engaged as in burning daylight.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But there was something else more specific than that you said about his. Did you...do you remember the term...

SENATOR TYSON: I hope it wasn't obscene or vulgar.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Do you remember the term "comic relief"?
