LB 1090

have done?

SENATOR BEUTLER: My amendment would have added to what's left of the Janssen amendment, that is the sales tax, it would have added back the income tax portion.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And that then would have put the two together.

SENATOR BEUTLER: That would put the two together so that people wouldn't be afraid that one would go without the other.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And if I might ask without getting you to expose something you don't want to, why did you withdraw that at this point?

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, because I thought it was better to check with four or five people and see if they were interested rather than taking the time of the body if they weren't.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: You know, fear multiplies fear; courage never does that. So did you talk to four or five?

SENATOR BEUTLER: Would you like me to put the amendment back up, Senator?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Well...

SENATOR BEUTLER: Is there an indication that maybe there's some sort of compromise possible?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Well, I'm not the one to determine that. But, even if you lost me, you might pick up those others that you thought were of a mind to support something along the line what Senator Janssen offered if the two items were tied together. But you will never know if you don't do that because this by itself is certainly going to be voted down.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, let me ask you this, Senator. If I put the amendment back up...
