FLOOR DEBATE

April 7, 2004 LR 11

Janssen, Senator Schrock.

SENATOR SCHROCK: Mr. President, I give my time to Senator Schimek.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Schimek, you've almost five minutes.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Thank you, Mr. President and members. Thank you, Senator Schrock. I would like to ask Senator Smith a question, if I might.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Smith, would you respond?

SENATOR SMITH: Gladly.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Senator Smith, this is a very elementary question, but I'm going to ask it to make a point. Does our constitution prohibit Wal-Mart from coming into the state?

SENATOR SMITH: I would say that it doesn't.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: And you're right, and that is why we don't have to have the people take a vote state...

SENATOR SMITH: Okay, it's...

SENATOR SCHIMEK: ...now let me finish, it's my time...statewide on whether Wal-Mart comes into the state or not. That's done on an individual city by city, county by county basis. On the other hand, if a casino is to come into the state, it has to be a vote of the people because it says in the constitution that we don't allow casino gambling. It's that simple and I don't want us to lose track of the reason that we're all here today. If it's going to happen, we can't authorize it all by our little old selves. We have to go to the people to have it authorized and that's the difference between casinos and Wal-Mart, and I just wanted to make that point. In addition to that, Senator Smith, I'd say there's an easier way to keep casino money, gambling money, and it's not just casino money, I mean if you look at the list of registered lobbyists this year, there is 13 of them, at least by my last tally. Twelve of them, Senator
