FLOOR DEBATE

April 13, 2004 LB 625

your light is next. I take it you do not wish to speak? Thank you. Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. President, members of the Legislature, before I make my comments, I've got to make a preliminary comment. I should not have expressed my weakness when it comes to trusting men or trusting women. Senator Brown, if your gender were male, I would not entertain for a minute what you're offering, because I think it's a stratagem to get me out there, then you jerk the rug out from under me. But since you're a woman, Senator Brown, into thy hands I commend my fate on this bill, as far as not doing anything else in the way of an amendment or a motion at this time. But here's what I must say about what Senator Brown is offering. By having a delayed effective date, there will be no copies of these documents given. The form of the bill will have been frozen into statutory language. I still, if there was not a nickel at stake, be opposed to giving this kind of information. So I don't want anybody to misunderstand and think my only objection to the bill was the loss of the money. I mentioned that to maybe bring something to you all's attention that could cause you, for a motive other than mine, to not support this bill. I want that clearly on the record. No matter what HUD says, I still do not think this is a wise policy. Now I'm going to make one more comment, so I don't have to say it, and it relates to something totally off the subject. When I walked in here today and I saw people wearing all these American flags, I felt like Dracula walking into a room full of crosses draped in garlic. I meant, I was so taken aback, rendered weak in the knees, it was all I could do stay on my feet. So whereas I'm against any constitutional amendment--and as beautiful as the "Countess" makes that flag look, this is one time her being a female cannot overcome the problem. But if it could be, that would help. Whereas I would oppose any constitutional amendment that would make flag burning a crime, I would support any constitutional amendment that made wearing the flag a crime. And if there was any crime for which I thought the death penalty was appropriate--there is none which I think it's appropriate for--but that would probably be the one. Now the ringleader--and I'm not going to call any names--did not come here wearing his flag this morning. He got everybody else to
