FLOOR DEBATE

April 14, 2004 LR 11

gambling in Nebraska because, as it has been adequately pointed out, from horse racing to the lottery to pickle cards, you have gambling in Nebraska. So that's not the question. The question is, do the people want to allow this kind? Well, if they're going to allow this kind, I am really, really strongly against widespread slot machines, uncontrolled, unregulated in various parts of Nebraska. And I would say this also, that another thing about this proposition that's, I think, very reasonable and sensible is that if a county doesn't want it the county doesn't have to have it. If there's a county to the east, namely, Douglas, that doesn't want it, they don't have to have it. That is their choice. But if somebody along the interstate, another county, that wants jobs and that wants to pull some of those thousands of cars that go by every day from anywhere from New York to California license plates, if they want to pull them off to try to retain a little bit of money in Nebraska,...

SENATOR MAXWELL: One minute.

SPEAKER BROMM: ...another county certainly might have that opportunity. Douglas County doesn't want it. That is fine. But I suspect that there are some areas out there between Omaha and Lincoln, in the Ashland area, that might be tickled to death to have that opportunity to pull those cars off the road and maybe get them to our museum, maybe get them to the safari, maybe get them to the camping ground. I don't know. But there are opportunities that could be available in areas where people might embrace this as an economic development activity. So it's a reasonable proposal. It's very conservative. It's way too conservative for those that promote widespread gambling, and maybe after I hear all the arguments I won't vote for this, but I feel good about giving the people a chance to vote because it's a limited, fair, conservative proposition and they'll have a chance to...

SENATOR MAXWELL: Time.

SPEAKER BROMM: ...express their opinion. Thank you, Mr. President.
