FLOOR DEBATE

April 26, 2005 LB 114

to be developing on this bill. There will not be the type of pointed, searching questions to which the one being questioned will not take offense. Answers will be provided to the extent that they can, and information will be sought to complete the answer if necessary. But that would be a splendid way to proceed. However, these are those moments which we must enjoy as they take place. I even have a kind feeling toward Senator Flood, as I see him ambling down the aisle and making his way to his chair, but I know on the next bill he and I are going to be at loggerheads, because he is too smart a lawyer to have put his name on that bill. But before I break the spell, let me back off. I have a way of causing people to take note of things. But Senator Byars, I believe, is going to help maneuver us and guide us to a proper resolution of this issue. I'm especially grateful of the information given to us by Senator Kruse. That is heartening to me. I have a question, though, I would like to ask Senator Kruse, if he is still in the Chamber.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Kruse, would you reply?

SENATOR KRUSE: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Kruse, is there any number of children at a maximum that the Lions Club or group would be able to assist, or is it likely that whatever number of children would come from families unable to pay the costs of these evaluations could be assisted by your group?

SENATOR KRUSE: We have never reached a limit, Senator. Our little club puts up $2,000 to $3,000 a year, which covers quite a few. If we were to get close to that, we'd just call on another club, and we don't limit it to people that we know or in a particular area or something. They're simply...well, at any rate, we...I've never turned anybody down.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. Thank you. That's an additional assurance. And with what Senator Bourne is going to offer, I don't know if the form of his amendment is perfect yet, but I...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.
