LB 673

talking about Douglas, Sarpy and Lancaster, but in some of the western counties where these prairie dogs would be a problem, what do you think the average amount is that they would have in their reserve fund?

SENATOR BAKER: Time.

SENATOR STUTHMAN: I would say in some of those counties there, in reference to our county of Platte County, some of those counties would have $1 million to...

SENATOR BAKER: Time.

SENATOR STUTHMAN: ...$2 million in a reserve.

SENATOR BAKER: Thank you, Senators Chambers and Stuthman. Senator Chambers, you have spoken three times. This would be your closing.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Mr. President. Senator Stuthman, you say that these counties, on the average,...let's make it $1 million. They would all have probably at least $1 million in that fund. Do you agree?

SENATOR BAKER: Senator Stuthman, would you respond, please?

SENATOR STUTHMAN: Yes. I'm sure that...I would say all of the counties would have at least $1 million in reserve.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you. Now I would like to ask Senator Loudon a question.

SENATOR BAKER: Senator Loudon, would you respond, please?

SENATOR LOUDON: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Loudon, why, when these counties have this money, are they trying to put the burden on the individual landowner to manage these wild animals when the counties, in fact, have the wherewithal to do the managing themselves?
