

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

January 20, 2006 LB 72

enforcement officer. Quite frankly, I don't think that would make a lot of sense, and I'm glad you're open to a possible amendment relative to the minimum standards of your bill. Thank you.

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Thank you, Senator Synowiecki. Senator Beutler. And this is your third time. Senator Beutler.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Mr. Lieutenant Governor, members of the Legislature. Senator Combs, could I have a little exchange with you? You've listened a little bit to the discussion about the comparison of your bill to Senator Stuhr's bill. And we talked a little bit about the provision in your bill that has...that says that with respect to financial institutions, that they may authorize security personnel under the permitting process in your bill. Would you agree that that section probably should be lifted and put over into Senator Stuhr's bill?

SENATOR COMBS: I believe that that would probably be the kind of training I would like to see. I know what that training is. It's given by the State Patrol. It would also be equivalent with any other training. And I know how strict that training is, because I've had that training myself. I would feel more comfortable if the State Patrol was included, if it would be acceptable to Senator Stuhr, and if it would be possible. I would feel more comfortable with that, because that is...that way, it would be all standardized, and certainly, I know how stringent it is.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, let me ask if I understand you correctly. You're saying you feel more comfortable switching that over to Senator Stuhr's bill if, as in your bill, it was the State Patrol that was doing this permitting and testing?

SENATOR COMBS: That's correct.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay. Well, let me ask you this. Almost exactly, not quite, but almost exactly Senator Stuhr has parroted language from your bill, or maybe you parroted language from her bill, or who knows where it came from, but it's mostly the same.