amendment up there to strike the word "licensee" and insert the word "license." Oh, there's so much that could be done with this amendment. And since I do intend to take time as well as be serious, I will find something else to have great fun with. I doubt that there will be any objection to accepting this amendment, so I'm going to just kind of talk in general terms about the bill and some of the implications. I was here when Senator Aguilar raised the issue about these questionable operators doing everything they could to cause confusion in the public's mind, or, not just confusion, but to deceive the public into viewing their vehicles and the people who work for them as being members of the particular law enforcement agency they were trying to ape or imitate. When you have an industry, if that's what it's to be called, where carrying guns is an essential part of the operations and activities, there have got to be stringent regulations. But those stringent regulations should take the form of easily understood requirements. As I read the bill, it's clear that Senator Stuhr was trying to accommodate the concerns that people had about how these individuals will be trained, the restrictions that would be placed on them, and do all possible to protect the public from incompetent individuals, unfit individuals putting themselves in a position, by way of saying they're security officers, to do great harm to the public. We all know that good laws and good rules will not guarantee that bad people will not circumvent those rules, get in a position to hurt somebody, and hurt somebody. There is no guarantee that a person will not start out doing the right thing, then go bad. What we don't want is a set of rules, regulations, and requirements which encourage and facilitate bad results. Since it is my belief that the amendment up there will not be objected to, I'd like to ask Senator Stuhr a question or two about some other items in the bill.

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Senator Stuhr, would you yield?

SENATOR STUHR: Yes, I would.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Stuhr, would you turn to page 3 of your amendment?

SENATOR STUHR: Yes.
