that we have no way to track. They have no training, and they're subject to pull them at any time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Bah, humbug. Thank you, Senator Combs.

SENATOR COMBS: You bet.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: What Senator Combs is doing is opening up the field to all these other people to carry these guns without the kind of training that you all are aware of being required of police officers, who, despite my criticisms of them, I feel have greater competency in the handling of these guns than the miscellaneous scared people that Senator Combs is talking about. Some of the loosely wrapped people she's talking about couldn't get onto a law enforcement agency. They wouldn't qualify. But none of that is required. Now I'd like to ask Senator Stuhr...

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...a question.

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Senator Stuhr.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Stuhr,...

SENATOR STUHR: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...under your bill, it's not necessary that a person, once he or she becomes a security guard, or officer, ever take continuing training or be requalified in the handling of a firearm, is there?

SENATOR STUHR: I'm not sure, Senator Chambers. They will have to renew their license, and so they will, you know, have to stay qualified in that sense. But...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But there is nothing that says they have to go on a range or anywhere else, at this point?

SENATOR STUHR: No. No.
