FLOOR DEBATE

January 20, 2006 LB 72

violator of criminal statutes sits on the Board of Regents. You would find a professor perhaps willing to flunk a student who cheats on an exam, but there sits David Hergert, who cheated, who lied, who violated criminal statutes, helping to establish standards and rules for the governance of the entire university,...

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...not just UNL, but the university system. And the Governor says he can't say anything about that, but he jumps into a situation in Omaha, a dispute between and among school districts. But when it comes to the flagship university and all the other parts of that system, he says the fact that you've got a man on there--these are my words--who I say has established that he is unethical, he is dishonest, he is unprofessional, and he has engaged in improper conduct, the Governor can't say anything about it. But I can and I will. I have a responsibility as an elected official, and the university is an agency of the government of this state and it is there to have an influence on and educate all of the young people, middle-aged people, old people,...

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Time, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...traditional students and others who go there.

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Now I'm going to ask Senator Stuhr a question.

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Senator Stuhr, would you yield?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: You can take your time, Senator Stuhr. I'm not going anywhere.

SENATOR STUHR: Yes, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Stuhr, why should we place higher
