it. But if they found out students were cheating or a professor was cheating, they'd say, get him out, or, as they would say, throw the bum out. Well, I say throw the bum out. Do you notice how they tiptoe around him? But you know why they are so strong in attacking students who cheat? Because students are easy targets. They're weak. They can't hit back. You can do anything you want to, to them. But David Hergert, a liar, a cheater, a violator of the criminal law, sits on the Board of Regents. So if there are honest students and they want to approach the Board of Regents, they have to talk to...

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Time, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...this kind of person. Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT SHEEHY: Further discussion on FA356? Seeing none, Senator Chambers, you're recognized to close.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Mr. President. It should be on the floor of the Legislature that the things I'm saying need to be said. The public needs to know that there is one man, at least, who is not going to go along with evil. What is needed for evil to prevail? That good people do nothing. And the Legislature is coming as close to doing nothing as it can. Think how lucky your state is going to be if term limits gets me out of here. Liars, cheats can be on the Board of Regents, and there will be no whisper about it on the floor of the Legislature. All of this thing that I'm talking about will go unattended to as far as the Legislature. Senator Friend brought several bills to the Judiciary Committee yesterday to stiffen penalties, and we're going to have other bills to stiffen punishments. But when it comes to a man like David Hergert, they don't know what to say. I want to sit back and watch. I want to see what somebody else will do. Let Ernie handle it. They know I'm telling the truth. They're afraid to tell it, that's what the problem is. They are afraid. They owe more to mere men than they owe to the truth. When Pilate was dealing with that man that you all pray to every day, he asked a question, and I wish he had waited long enough to get the answer. He asked Jesus, what is truth? And when I was a little
