FLOOR DEBATE

February 16, 2006 LB 856

amendment that's pending now. In my existing amendment that's up there, it says that this term, "hatching eggs" means an unborn chick. Senator Hudkins pointed out that those creatures which emerge from eggs are not born; they are hatched. So what my amendment that I'm offering now does, is to define the word "unborn" that appears in my amendment, so it says "unborn means unhatched." And no trickery, that's what the amendment would do that's up there now. How do you feel about that amendment?

SENATOR FRIEND: Well, I don't know that I really have that much of a feeling about it, because part of the reason that I performed my presto act and my prestidigitation, if you will, is because I really felt like this almost was getting to the point of, in my opinion, irrelevancy, so...not to you and maybe to others, but to me, and in regard to this particular bill, overall. And it's certainly no offense meant by it, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And no offense is taken.

SENATOR FRIEND: Yeah.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: In fact, I'm enjoying your...

SENATOR FRIEND: That I just believe that in the overall scope of LB 856, it just was not a pressing issue. So I depressed.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: It was not a pressing issue, yet you emphasize that you pressed your button?

SENATOR FRIEND: But at the same time, Senator Chambers, if you would allow me, I also at the very end, if you'd notice, didn't vote on it, because I reevaluated my position and said this was...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Oh, so ultimately you...

SENATOR FRIEND: ...pure prestidigitation, and I needed, you know, time to, you know, evaluate the situation. And now that I have, I'm thinking I'm probably even more ambivalent, to be honest.
