stillness and humility./But when the blast of war blows in our ears/Then imitate the action of the tiger/Stiffen the sinews/Summon the blood/Disguise fair nature with hard-favor'd rage/Then lend an eye a terrible aspect. It was dealing with the bill, but it was a private conversation Senator Chambers and I had, and I'm welcoming his response. I urge the body to support Senator Chambers' amendment to this bill. He is right; it is clarifying and will do nothing but help the bill in the long run.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Chambers?

SENATOR CORNETT: I turn my time over to Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. President, Senator Cornett and I did have a very good discussion after we adjourned the other day, and I was aware of this quote, and I think it is what we would call dynamite. But I'm not going to comment here (laugh). I like the quote, and it has various applications. But I've begun to think about my colleague--very, very tricky. And I'm quoting...the lady who works with me is Cindy Grandberry, as you all may know. She has her little grandniece who has been coming down, and she's five years old. And kids, as Art Linkletter said, say the darndest things. There are two doors that I have to my office, so she was on one side of the office, and I came through this other door. And then she saw me. She said, how did you get in here? So I went and I showed her. She said, you can come through that door? I said, yes. She said, very tricky. So we call it the tricky door. Well, I think what Senator Cornett is doing is very tricky. She's going to take a tiger, declaw him, defang him, and turn him into a little tabby cat, and I can't let that happen. So I appreciate the quote and the discussion or comments that I was going to engage in. I won't now, because I cannot show any weakness. It might be misconstrued as support for the bill, and I cannot let that happen. Since I'm on Senator Cornett's time, I'm giving it back to her, because she may have some additional things she'd like to say, and she might provoke me into saying something about it, but I doubt it.
