FLOOR DEBATE

February 27, 2006

East. I don't think he came from--well, still could be related--from Bertrand.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So then you're telling me that Ms. Linda Heiden has spent all of her life in Bertrand?

SENATOR JENSEN: I don't know about all her life, but certainly from high school on.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How do you know that?

SENATOR JENSEN: Well, and you have me there, too.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: You mean you're making all these assumptions and presumptions...

SENATOR JENSEN: No, no, no, no, no. (Laugh)

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...about these people? Now, okay, then let's look...

SENATOR JENSEN: Let me...she was born in Lexington, Nebraska.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. And she stated that on her paper, correct?

SENATOR JENSEN: She did. She did.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. And you believe her?

SENATOR JENSEN: I did not interrogate her, but I do believe her. Yes, I do.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Would she have any reason to not give the actual location of her birth?

SENATOR JENSEN: I don't think she would.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How does she know she was born in Lexington?

SENATOR JENSEN: Because somebody told her she was.
