FLOOR DEBATE

February 27, 2006

SENATOR JENSEN: This is number three. We have five more.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Five more. And if 15 minutes by me would be taken on each of those five, that would be 75 minutes. Is that correct?

SENATOR JENSEN: That is correct.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Seventy-five plus thirteen equals what?

SENATOR JENSEN: Seventy-five plus thirteen?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes, Senator...the Chair could answer that quickly, because he plays an instrument that has that number.

SENATOR JENSEN: Seventy-five and thirteen are eighteen...are eighty-eight.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Right. Now how many minutes are there are in a hour?

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time, Senator Chambers. Senator Schimek, followed by Senator Chambers.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Thank you, Mr. Chairman and members. I would like to say for the record that I am glad that I am not trying to get any appointments confirmed today, Senator Jensen, and I think I've learned a good lesson and that is not to bring eight of them all at one time onto the floor. But you're doing admirably and I think we will work through them, and I'm...I think they'll all get confirmed this morning. So I just wanted to take a little time here on the mike to talk about the little handout that you got this morning, and I don't know how many of you have correctly recognized and identified the two colleagues who did participate in the polar plunge out at Holmes Lake this weekend, but they were Senators Beutler and Senator Landis, and they did it for a very good cause. And I just wanted to have a little fun with it. I thought it was absolutely splendid of them to do this. I have to tell you that I chickened out on jumping into Holmes Lake in the middle of the winter. I decided that's where I draw the line. But I think Senator Brown has
