FLOOR DEBATE

March 28, 2006 LB 1226

things that I talk about. So whenever any of you all get so upset with me that you, in one way or another, are going to put me in my place, just come on and do it. And if you do it once, that's not enough. You're going to have to do it again and again and again, and don't get tired. They had this big old muscular individual named George Foreman fighting Muhammad Ali, throwing those humongous, monstrous punches, which would scare the average fighter to death. And Ali did what they call the "rope-a-dope." He was bobbing, weaving, and Foreman thought he was hitting Ali,...

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...and he wasn't.

SENATOR CUDABACK: You may continue.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So around the eighth round, Ali leaned in close on George Foreman, that massive chest of this ponderous man, and he heard George Foreman gasping for breath. And Ali told Foreman, George, this is the worst place in the world to get tired, and George was tired. And Ali then stretched him out on the canvas so that he could take his rest. Am I angry? Certainly not. It takes more than somebody shouting from under the galleries to make me angry, but it gives me the opportunity to make some things clear around here. Do I mind people shouting? I wish that we were conducting the Legislature like they do Parliament, so when the Governor is speaking, we don't like what he says, we shout him down. When the Speaker gets up and we don't like what he's saying, we'd boo him. But that's not the way things are done, unless somebody gets very upset and can't control themselves and doesn't like the fact that I'm talking to the Speaker on my time, so he tells me, come on. Oh, wait a minute. He was talking to the Speaker. Isn't that something? I presumed he was talking to me. But if the Speaker accepts it and he's not upset, it's on the Speaker. But it did give me an opportunity to declare my position and how I respond to things, and maybe one day I will holler from under the balcony, come on! You know, as I think about that, that ain't bad. I kind of like that! So when somebody brings one of these crazy amendments in here again, I don't have to wait till I'm
