March 30, 2006 LB 745

this nag right away and try to send it to the glue factory. I've heard all this talk by Senator Synowiecki and Senator Stuthman of what is entailed here, but nothing in the language of the statute. I'd like to ask Senator Synowiecki a question or two.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Synowiecki, would you respond?

SENATOR SYNOWIECKI: Yes, of course.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator "Snooky," are you the one who will answer questions on the committee amendment, or should I ask those of Senator Janssen?

SENATOR SYNOWIECKI: I'd be happy to attempt to answer the questions from the committee amendment.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay, do you have a copy of the committee amendment?

SENATOR SYNOWIECKI: No, I don't have a copy in front of me right...thank you. Yeah, now I do.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: That reminded me of a poem called The Ballad of the (sic) East and West, by Rudyard Kipling. There was one point where it said: And as he drew to the Quarter-Guard, full fifty (sic) swords drew clear -- / There was a not a man but carried his feud with the blood of the mountaineer. I won't go through the whole thing. But when Senator Synowiecki said he didn't have a copy of that amendment, full 20 or 30 were presented to him immediately. So my having said those words will have given him a chance to look at it because there are only a total of four lines. Senator "Snooky,"...

SENATOR SYNOWIECKI: (Laugh)

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...in line 2, what does "play" mean where it says $10 per play? What does "play" mean?

SENATOR SYNOWIECKI: It means when you engage the machine, when you place your bet...
