LB991 would allow Nebraska school buses under §60-6,175 to use stop-signal-arm camera systems to capture violation data. Data is defined as images, photographs, video, and audio recordings. The capture of data would include an imprinted or embedded date, time, and location stamp. School buses installed with the stop-signal-arm camera system must clearly display a warning informing other of the camera system's presence. This bill would permit these camera systems to be used by peace officers for the enforcement of driving violations, after reviewing the collected data. Any violations will be mailed to the registered owner of the vehicle. If the owner chooses to appeal, the appeal must be made within 30 days of citation delivery to the citation issuing law enforcement agency.

This bill would become effective three calendar months after the adjournment of the Legislature.

The Nebraska Department of Education (NDE) has noted that this bill only gives permission and does not require any Nebraska school districts to install the stop-signal-arm camera systems. As such, there is no fiscal impact to the NDE.

Both the Nebraska Department of Roads (NDOT) and the Nebraska Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) anticipate no fiscal impact from this bill.

The Lincoln Police Department is estimating this bill could have potential expenses of $100,000 each year, plus at least 1 more FTE peace officer who would be necessary for reviewing each video sent to them. This peace officer would have many duties such as: watching all the videos, verify the stop-arm violations, finding the registered vehicle's owner, verifying their address, making and then mailing a citation in six days of the actual violation. Additionally, if an appeal were to occur, the department would have additional duties and time commitment. The entirety of the expenditures if this bill were to pass is unknown at this time, and would be based on workload.

There is no basis to disagree with these estimations.

Explanation of Estimate:

This bill in its current form would require a law enforcement officer to review each video to verify a stop arm violation occurred, determine who the registered owner of the offending vehicle is, verify their correct address, complete a citation and mail said citation to the owner within six days of the violation. The registered owner may then present evidence to show the officer they were not the driver at which time the officer would have to review said evidence and conduct any necessary follow-up, then determine if the citation should stand or be rescinded. It's very difficult to calculate the potential fiscal cost to our agency as I have no way of knowing how many videos/violations we could potentially receive on a weekly basis or how long this process could take. I would estimate the entire process (initial review of video, determine registered owner, verify current address, complete citation, send citation via certified mail, complete necessary reports, store and categorize videos for future court purposes and maintain this database) would take approximately 30-45 minutes per violation. Depending on the number of potential violations received requiring review, we could reasonably expect this cost at a minimum to be 1 FTE at a cost of $100,000 per year.

FEDERAL FUNDS	_____	_____	_____	_____
OTHER FUNDS	_____	_____	_____	_____
TOTAL FUNDS	_____	_____	_____	_____

Explanation of Estimate:

As proposed, LB991 would authorize school districts to install and operate stop-signal-arm camera systems on district owned school buses or contract with a private vendor to provide the services. The bill would allow a citation to be issued for a violation following a review of the data from the camera system by a peace officer.

If enacted, no fiscal impact to Nebraska Department of Transportation is anticipated.

Explanation of Estimate:

LB 991 allows school districts to install stop signal arm camera systems which can be used to document violations of State Statute 60-6,175. Video evidence can be sent to a peace officer who can issue citations within 6 days of the violation. Drivers issued citations may appeal the citation within 30 days of the delivery of the citation.

This bill does not require school districts to install stop signal arm camera systems so there is no required fiscal impact for school districts or the NDE.
