LB216 repeals the aircraft and motor vehicle guest liability statutes. Current law provides that the owner or operator of any aircraft or motor vehicle is not liable for any damages to any passenger or person related to the owner or operator who is riding in the aircraft or vehicle as a guest or by invitation except in the case of pilot or driver being under the influence of alcohol or gross negligence of the owner or operator.

LB216 could increase the cost of aircraft and motor vehicle insurance. The amount of the increase cannot be estimated.
