LB680, as introduced, consists of the basic “boilerplate” structure necessary to enact appropriations related to the “American Recovery and Reconstruction Act of 2009,” or “ARRA”.

At the present time, the bill does not contain any specific programs or amounts. It’s assumed that these will subsequently be incorporated as more is known about the ARRA funding and the budget process continues. Most ARRA funding flows are dependent upon issuance of guidance by federal departments, specific application processes and certifications, many of which are still unknown at the present time.
