

Nebraska Board of Barber Examiners Comparison to other State Regulations

All of the states in the USA have regulations regarding barbers and barber shops. Many of the standards set by the Nebraska Board of Barber Examiners are similar to other state barber boards, especially concerning sanitation practices.

Regulations set by states concerning licensure may differ from state to state, as a Nebraska Barber License will allow the license holder to perform chemical services, while some of the other states do not. The states that offer a license to barbers to only cut hair and shave, will often require fewer hours of school training, versus a state that allows a barber to perform chemical services.

While Nebraska does not enforce a fine on licensees for not following regulations, other states do enforce a fine.

In summary, all states do have regulations or statutes on sanitation for barbers, beyond that the regulations may vary from state to state, depending on the type of licenses offered and how violations are handled.
